Hello Breanna,

I just wanted to touch base with you about your property. I meet with your boyfriend last time and discussed the issue of the wall bowing in and the crack seals being broken. I have in my notes the rear wall would need 6 steel beams to be stabilized. That repair would cost approximately $7,500.00 and would come with a lifetime structural warranty. It has been a few months since the last visit to your property, so if you would like to go forward with the install of the beams, we can schedule an appointment to come out and get you an up to date quote of work. Thanks Breanna, and let me know if you have any questions.
